We founded this country on the belief of free enterprize and freedom to compete in open markets. When a company like Microsoft does this too well everyone jumps in and forces the government to save them. The truth is that if other software manufacturers could put a product that worked as well as Windows we would be using it. Microsoft should have the right to do what it wants with a product that it created. The government nor the other software companys own windows Microsoft does. To tell them what they can and can t do with it is appalling to me.
